

Criminal Justice Students Volunteer to Raise Money for the Salvation Army

Dec. 22, 2009 (New Hartford, N.Y.) – Oneida-Herkimer-Madison BOCES Career and Technical Education (CTE) students Stephanie Wing, a Thomas R. Proctor High School senior, and Anthony Velardi, a senior at Whitesboro High School, volunteered to help the Salvation Army raise money for families in need. The two students rang bells in support of the Salvation Army's Red Kettle campaign at the New Hartford Walmart. The students are part of the CTE Criminal Justice program and were supervised by their instructor Richard Marchitelli.
